

SECOND INTERNATIONAL MEETING OF THE GLOBAL JUDICIAL INSTITUTE FOR THE ENVIRONMENT

Brasília, May 19-21, 2017

AGENDA

At the World Environmental Law Congress in April 2016 in Rio de Janeiro, under the auspices of the IUCN World Commission on Environmental Law, judges representing six continents gathered to establish the Global Judicial Institute for the Environment (GJIE). The GJIE is an endeavor supported by a multitude of partners, including national judicial schools, institutes, and academies; international and regional judicial associations and networks, such as the International Association of Judges and the EU Forum of Judges for the Environment; multilateral organizations, including UN Environment, the Organization of American States, and the Asian Development Bank.

The GJIE Charter describes its mission: “to support the role of courts and tribunals in applying and enforcing environmental laws and in promoting the environmental rule of law and the fair distribution of benefits and burdens.” The role for the Institute encompasses engagement not only with specialized environmental courts and tribunals, but other courts as well, including, for example, constitutional courts and other adjudicatory bodies that address environmental matters. It embraces efforts to provide research and analysis on environmental adjudication, including bringing environmental sciences to the service of the courts; promote capacity building, education, and training; and provide a forum for convening judges for collaboration and exchange of information on environmental law issues.

One year after the launch, this Second International Meeting of the Global Judicial Institute for the Environment will be a decision-making meeting, with a focus on the structure and model for legal personality of the Institute; governance of the GJIE, including the formation of an Interim Governing Council and Judicial Advisory Board; plans for seeking expressions of interest from other institutions to host the GJIE Secretariat; and discussion and approval of GJIE membership, as well as upcoming activities and events that are being planned among the GJIE and partner institutions. The meeting builds on regional meetings and consultations held throughout the last year, as well as videoconferences and in-person meetings in Brazil in February 2017.

For the first day of the meeting, Friday, May 19, hosted by the National High Court of Brazil (STJ), a videoconference link will be available for participants who are not able to attend in person. Details about how to connect to this link will be provided prior to the meeting.
